

Baby's new wheels - YippieYo "Crossbuggy" Review

Last month we went to Camp Bestival and although we knew Baby would love it, we also knew how much walking would be involved for her. In 2015 we took an old stroller with us, but being three and very independent, we knew she wouldn't be keen on getting in a stroller!

As if by magic, just as I was contemplating our options I heard from YippeeYo who have created their unique Crossbuggy. They combined elements from a pushchair, a hand-drawn cart and a child carrier to create an all-terrain buggy that is highly manoeuvrable, durable and with space for two children aged from one to six. Although we only have one child, we knew the extra space would come in handy for bags.

7

1

Our loaded up YippeeYo at Camp Bestival

Off road features

- Just one axle
- 14 inch wheels
- Generous amount of ground clearance
- Comfortable suspension
- Stable disc brakes

Key safety features

- Low centre of gravity
- Additional anti-tip mechanisms
- A 5-point safety harness system

- A handbrake

7

- A parking brake

- Passed the strict European Standard for Pushchairs and Prams (EN 1888)

1

When you need to store the YippieYo, it can be easily be folded down. The handle folds back on the chassis and the wheels can be removed. This was a lifesaver as our car was already overloaded with camping equipment.

One feature that makes the YippieYo different is that it's pulled rather than pushed like most buggies. This means that obstacles such as stones and rough terrain are easily managed. The only issue we had with pulling it was how our backs twisted a little when we were pulling it with one hand. It managed the vast hills at Camp Bestival with ease.

7

1

YippieYo Crossbuggy additional features

- Space for bags
- Narrow enough to fit through all standard doorways
- 12kg when unloaded
- Customisable seat covers, chassis and wheels
- It's quick and easy to transport

Baby was always happy to sit in it, unlike buggies or prams. She loved having an input into the colour of her new transportation (there are seven different colour options) and she was super excited when it arrived in a box bigger than her! We were sent the co-ordinating stroller bag, which clips onto the back of the seat; this was really handy for all of our daily essentials. I also found I could pop a rolled up picnic blanket under the bag, when we were away from the tent for the day.

7

1

We were really pleased with the amount of space Baby had in the YippieYo and how many other things we could pop in there too. The YippieYo was the subject of many admiring glances and comments from other festival goers too!

Disclosure: We were gifted a YippieYo in return for an honest review.

Sharing is caring!

You may also like:

7

1

Winning byStroom
A changing bag
giveaway (Worth £90)

How to Make Money
Without Having a Job in The UK?

The Brit Method

Millionaires Are Furious About This Video - They Want It
Banned Because Too
Many Are Getting Rich!

The Millionaire Blueprint Video

Jojo Maman Bébe
£40 voucher giveaway

i Heart Wines
Giveaway

The truth about being successful

Blogging help

Trolley Bag Giveaway
& Review

to Gaborone

from

to Gaborone

from

to Gaborone

from London

£447

to Ghana

from London

£343

Disclaimer

Disclaimer

Ads by Shareaholic

Ads by Shareaholic

7

1

